The Clever Fox and the Proud Lion

Once upon a time, in a vast forest, there lived a lion who was very proud of his strength. Every morning, he roared so loudly that all the animals trembled in fear. One day, a clever fox grew tired of the lion's arrogance.
The fox said to the lion, "Oh mighty king, I've heard there's another lion in the forest who claims to be stronger than you." The lion, furious and curious, demanded to meet this rival immediately.
The fox led him to a deep well and said, "He lives down there." When the lion looked into the well, he saw his own reflection and roared in anger. The reflection roared back. Thinking it was another lion mocking him, he jumped into the well to fight — only to drown.
The fox smiled and whispered, "Pride always leads to downfall."

The Tower of London

The Tower of London, situated on the north bank of the River Thames, is one of the most famous historical landmarks in England.
Built by William the Conqueror in 1078, the Tower has served many purposes: a royal palace, a prison, an armory, and even a zoo.
Its thick stone walls and massive towers tell stories of power, betrayal, and survival throughout centuries of British history.
Today, the Tower is best known as the home of the Crown Jewels — the nation's most precious collection of royal treasures.
Millions of tourists visit every year to see the dazzling jewels guarded by the Yeoman Warders, commonly known as the Beefeaters.
Despite its dark history of executions and imprisonments, the Tower of London now stands as a symbol of national pride and heritage.
However, maintaining such an ancient structure requires constant restoration and protection from pollution and weather damage.

No	Sentences	T	F
1.	The Tower of London was originally built as a prison by William the Conqueror
2.	Pollution and weather are current threats to the Tower's structure.
3.	The Tower's restoration is managed entirely by the royal family.
4.	The Tower of London has always been a symbol of happiness and peace.
5.	Yeoman Warders are another name for Beefeaters who guard the jewels.
